Debaters At Harvard, JHU

Robert Bellarmine debaters, Tom Curtis, John Baynes, Tom Dwyer and Bob Goldsmith, are representing Loyola this weekend at Harvard and Hopkins respectively, participating in two of the year's biggest east-coast debating tournaments. On the home scene, the Debating Society is preparing to host the 1st Evergreen Debate tournament.

Curtis and Baynes left Baltimore Wednesday afternoon to arrive at Cambridge along with 40 other college representatives for the Harvard Tournament, Thurs. to Sat., Feb. 4, 5, 6. This marks the first time that Loyola has attended the Harvard Invitational Tourney, an 8 round, two-man contest on the national topic. The Debaters will argue both affirmative and negative: "Resolved that: Congress should be given the power to reverse decisions of the Supreme Court."

Meanwhile Johns Hopkins is hosting Loyola at its tournament today and tomorrow. Tom Dwyer and Bob Goldsmith are the Bellarmine representatives at this annual event. Hopkins, like Harvard, is a 6 round, two man, alternating affirmative and negative debates on the national topic and like Harvard it will attract teams from leading schools across the nation.

On the home front, John Baynes and Bob Goldsmith have been engineering the plans for the first Evergreen Tournament, an extemporaneous debate contest scheduled for Sat., March 5.

ROTC Sets Weekly Talks

On February 10, Major James L. Creekman, Jr., will give the second of five talks presented by the Military Science Department. Major Creekman will speak on "Language Training in the Army."

The lectures are scheduled for 3:00 P.M. on Wednesdays in Cohn Hall. The subjects to be presented are of great interest on the current national scene and affect all Americans.

Colonel Mischa Kadick, Professor of Military Science and Tactics, has arranged for speakers from a variety of professional fields to lecture. Last Wednesday Dudley Digges of the Sunpapers was the featured speaker.

Senior Interviews Set For February

On February 2, the Loyola College Placement Office initiated a series of Senior Interviews on the campus which make it possible for seniors to get first hand information about job opportunities in industry, government, and education. The following is a list of interviews up to February 16.

Bob Reiter Named Editor Of Greyhound

With the publication of this issue Robert Reiter officially assumes the position of editor-in-chief of the GREYHOUND. He replaces James Molloy, who has resigned after two semesters.

Additional changes include a new Sports Editor and the creation of two staff positions, a Managing Editor and a Features Editor. Moving up to the sports' desk is Lawrence Sturm, who replaces William Lohnes, while the new Managing Editor will be Thomas Himmelheber, and Features will be handled by John Quinn. Taking over as Assistant Sports Editor is Pete Cook.

The remainder of the staff include William Baurenschub, a junior English major and the Copy Editor, Lawrence Parr, a junior Economics major, who is the Business Manager, and George Hricko and Phil McGarvey, photography.

Background

Majoring in Business Administration, junior Bob Reiter is a member of the Lacrosse team and the Block L. "Rol" Sturm, the Sports Editor, is a junior Accounting major and played on the Lacrosse Squad as a freshman. Tim Himmelheber, a junior Math major, is in the Glee Club and the Math Club. The man in charge of Features, John Quinn, is a junior majoring in Economics, and is beginning his second successive semester as keeper of the "Watchdog."

Farewells

With the appointment of a new Editor-in-chief and Sports Editor, Jim Molloy and Bill Lohnes leave the Greyhound after four successful years. Their perseverance and ability will be greatly missed by all staff members.

Moderator Mr. Jon O'Brien, S.J., and editor Reiter join in reminding that all students are welcome to come down to U-17 and join the paper as reporters, photographers, or as members of the Business Staff.

Spot News

Modern Language

The Sixth Loyola College Coordinating Conference for the teaching of Modern Languages will be held this year at Mt. St. Agnes College on February 12 beginning at 3:45 p.m. The chairman of the proceedings is Mr. Vincent Colimore.

Mixer

The second in a series of mixers, sponsored by the Sodality, will be held tonight in the Student Union Building after the Belmont Abbey basketball game.

Father Conlin

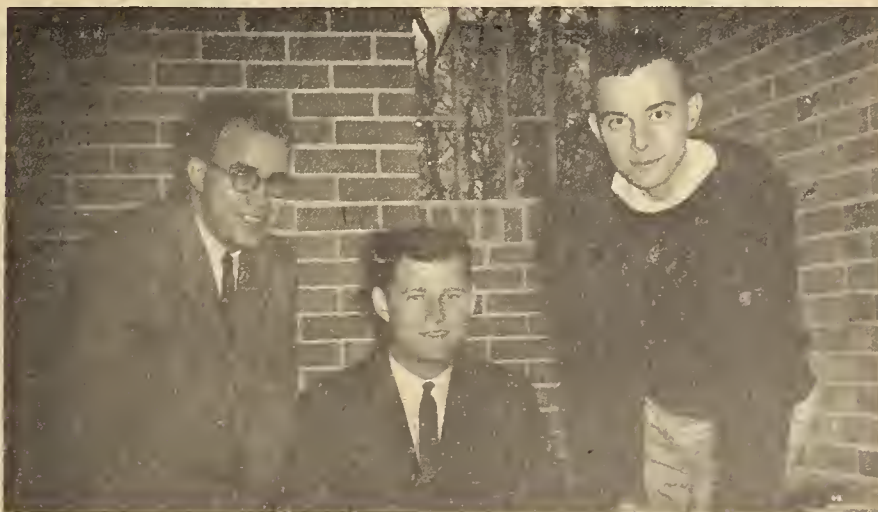

Fr. Conlin has returned to the Evergreen campus after a three month hospitalization in St. Louis. While in the mid-west, he passed the preliminary examinations for his doctorate in Sociology.

Yearbook

The '60 Evergreen reports that only eleven students, all seniors, have responded to its call for advertisements. Mr. McDermott, moderator, says that further delays will result in a late yearbook.

Chartered Flight

If 87 persons make reservations with Mr. Colimore for a June air-flight to Paris, the round-trip price will be $230. For further information, see Mr. Colimore.

Farewell

Everyone likes to consider himself indispensable, but if he is a realist he knows that this is illusory. After three and one-half years with the Greyhound and more than two on the editorial staff, it seems strange that the paper could come out without you, but it does.

This is somewhat of a report to my publishers and readers and I certainly owe them a great deal more than just that. During my term with the Greyhound there have been many changes on campus; the Development fund has reached sizable proportions, the Millbrook property was purchased, the Student Center Building was erected, and several changes have been made in the curriculum. The Greyhound also has changed: four offices and as many moderators in four years, a decrease in size but a doubling in frequency of publication.

Lessons Learned

Working on the paper has been a great experience in many ways. Perhaps the biggest lesson to be learned is that of respect for the printed word. Speech is just so much hot air, but writing is there physically for everyone to see, to take apart, and to interpret. It is a very hard decision when you are trying to meet a deadline to reject material or to rewrite, but it must be done.

Team-work is a lesson to be learned from any joint venture and I would like to express my

by James M. Molloy
Ex-Editor-in-chief

thanks to the people I have worked with in the last few years. I would especially like to thank those who were responsible for what success there was during my editorship, my moderators Mr. Francis L. Christ and Mr. Jon O'Brien with whom I fought so frequently, Tim Himmelheber, Dick Keene, Ken Kramer, Bill Lohnes and John Quinn, who did so much of the work, Bill Lefevre, the Public Relations Director, whose copy I stole so often, and the new editor, Bob Reiter, who made it easier for me to retire.

Back to Oblivion

Running a newspaper may not make many friends for you but it will certainly make you well-known. I have tried to avoid annoying people whenever possible, but there always seemed to be someone who held an opposing opinion. It will be pleasant to return to the relative anonymity of just another student.

The hardest part of leaving the editorship will be reducing myself from first person plural to first person singular. The editorial "we" has such an ego boosting ring to it; just kings, the Pope and "we". But humility is still a virtue.

In passing on the crown and sceptre of green eye-shade and blue pencil to my successor Bob Reiter, I think my best wish for him would be that he is as successful as I in finding a replacement at the end of his tenure.

To Jim Molloy

Putting the paper together on Mondays, knowing that it has to be at the printer's sometime that night is a weekly crisis for us. But under Jim Molloy's patient leadership, we were able to meet the crisis each week during the fall semester.

And so to you Jim Molloy, thank you for an excellent job as editor of the Greyhound. We only hope that we are able to do the job as well.

The Greyhound Salutes Mike Plott

Mike Plott, noted for his easy going manner and incessant extracurricular activities, is most in evidence these days as associate editor of the yearbook. With other members of the 1960 Evergreen Annual staff, Mike is spending a good bit of time these days (and nights) in the publications' office in the basement of the Student Center.

At other times and on other days he appears as president of the A.S.O., vice-president of the Mendel Club, and a member of the Classics Academy and the St. John Berchmans Society.

Eta Sigma Phi, the honorary classical fraternity, and Alpha Sigma Nu, national Jesuit honor fraternity, number him on their rosters. And this fall he was in the list of Loyola seniors selected for "Who's Who Among College Students".

As a pre-med student, Mike has maintained a Q.P.A. of 3.63 at Loyola. He plans to attend medical school after graduation, and he has been accepted at Georgetown.

"My goal in life is to be a good doctor," he said. "My outlook on life, though not changed, has been modified during my years at Loyola so that many former prejudices have been removed."

"I think the Philosophy courses at Loyola are extremely worthwhile. No matter what you do in life, you always seem to philosophize. Your philosophy of life is involved in every decision you make. If you can approach the study of philosophy with an open mind — without a mental block against it as a required course — you find it an enjoyable experience."

"The best advice I can give to an underclassman is to apply yourself diligently and wholeheartedly. Take advantage of the tremendous opportunities available here at Loyola."

Mike Plott

the Watchdog

The mud in front of the Andrew White Center is only temporary, we are told. Permanent mud will not be installed until spring.

Just what is it they sealed up in that cornerstone last Sunday. Watchdog thought it might have been Harry, but unfortunately Harry is still scandalizing.

Despite Harry's predictions, the Watchdog is a noble Greyhound not a Hound dog.

The ROTC lectures will undoubtedly be appreciated by the student body, but why not:

DeGaulle on "The Importance of NATO to Free World Security."

Khrushchev on "Soviet-American relations."

Castro on "How to grow a fashionable beard."

Eisenhower on "The art of golfing."

Kennedy on "Republican failure and a Democratic future."

Humphrey on "The strategic missile lag."

Since the rooms in the Student Center are labeled (U-?), students should watch out for the periscope from the U-200, the Deans Office. Students are also warned not to enter room U-238; it is explosive and is deceptively called "women."

Joe: "Duh, How did it go, Moe?"
Moc: "Let's see — F, F, E, F!!
Well, I guess that means I only have 46 hours next semester."

Rifle Team To Oppose Georgetown Next Friday

The ROTC Rifle Team opens the second half of its season next Friday in a home match against Georgetown University at 4:00 P.M.

The Evergreen marksman expect to record their second win of the year. During the first semester's competition the rifle team had a 1 and 5 record. The main reason for this poor showing was the lack of adequate practice facilities.

Since the opening of the Student Center Building on Jan. 4, the firers have used the new rifle range in its basement, and have improved their individual scores as much as twenty points. Sgt. Foley, team coach, is expecting an even greater improvement.

Soph firers have experienced the greatest improvements. Bob Cook, Lou French, Jim Heim, Denny Homberg, and Joe Juknelis are usually the low fire men on the team. Their improvements have led Sgt. Foley to comment that these men might break into the top five bracket during the second semester. With this added scoring potential the team hopes to regain the depth it had two years ago when the firers won 12 out of 13 matches.

The top five, Co-captains Jerry Balda and John Connor, and John Quinn, Mike Garrett, and Bob Reynolds have also improved their scores. Sgt. Foley is confident that each of these five will break 275, and possibly 280 before the season is finished.

These are the silver wings of a U. S. Air Force Navigator. As a flying officer on the Aerospace team, he has chosen a career of leadership, a career that has meaning, rewards and executive opportunity.

The Aviation Cadet Program is the gateway to this career. To qualify for this rigorous and professional training, a high school diploma is required; however, two or more years of college are highly desirable. Upon completion of the program the Air Force encourages the new officer to earn his degree so he can better handle the responsibilities of his position. This includes full pay and allowances while taking off-duty courses under the Bootstrap education program. The Air Force will pay a substantial part of all tuition costs. After having attained enough credits so that he can complete course work and residence requirements for a college degree in 6 months or less, he is eligible to apply for temporary duty at the school of his choice.

If you think you have what it takes to earn the silver wings of an Air Force Navigator, see your local Air Force Recruiter. Ask him about Aviation Cadet Navigator training and the benefits which are available to a flying officer in the Air Force. Or fill in and mail this coupon.

There's a place for tomorrow's leaders on the Aerospace Team.

Natators Big Test At A.U. Wednesday

By PETE COOK

After sweeping its first five meets, the Loyola College swimming team faces defending Mason-Dixon Conference champion American University at the Eagles pool Wednesday night.

The Hounds are 2-0 in conference meets and 3-0 outside the conference. In taking all five of their meets to date the Green and Gray have outscored their opponents by a tremendous margin. The most points scored against the squad thus far has been 39 by Lynchburg, and in that meet the Hounds did not swim some of their best men.

American U.'s strength is unquestioned. The Eagles last year edged the Evergreeners for the Mason-Dixon Tournament, 73-72, and they have not lost one man from that squad.

Although American U. has strengthened itself with incoming freshmen, Coach Bill Klarner gives his squad a good chance of winning. "They'll be rated over us, but not so far as we'll not have a chance," he says.

Comparing the different times for certain events is the way Klarner sizes up his position. "They have better times than we do," he states. This however is misleading, since the way the opposing coach manipulates his swimmers has a lot to do with the outcome of the meet.

The coach is especially pleased with the performance of Jerry Preis. "It's nice to see Preis up there in the scoring," he states. Jerry is currently running fourth in the scoring derby and since he was not counted on too heavily in the beginning of the season this is a noteworthy achievement.

Others who rank above Preis in the scoring and who have contributed heavily to the success of the team are: Freshman freestyler Martin Pilsch — first in scoring with 39.50, Pete Powley, junior freestyler — second with 37.25, and Ken Freimuth, freshman breast-stroker — third with 33.25.

Intramural Items

By Matthew Schwientek

Nap Doherty expects a highly successful basketball season. In all, 17 teams have entered competition. This is just under last year's record of 20 teams.

Pre-season favorites are the twice champion Hoodles, the Vets, and the Handy Six.

The Hoodles, who last year went under the alias Hi-men, are again expected to win. The captain of the Hoodles is Dave Gardner. The team consists of Mike Ellis, Kenny Gray, Mike Rose, Gerry Knell, Gary Green, and Marty Northern.

The Vets, who ran second best to the Hoodles last year, lost one of their key men in Dick Sneeringer. But they still have enough scoring potential in their remaining men to cop the title. Pete Twardowicz, Pat Cullen, Bill Corcoran and Perry could mean the title for the Vets.

A pre-season victory over the Moleskins has established the Handy Six as a threat for the title. The Handy Six have a tremendous hustle and a good scoring punch in Chuck Pessagno, Tom Gentner and Nick Kollman.

Coach Mole Vitrano has scored another first at Loyola. He has entered not one, but three teams in intramural basketball competition. The teams are the "Fresh Moles", the "Soph Moles" and the Mole-skins.

GREYHOUND SPORTS

By ROL STURM

Ass't Sports Editor

Students may pick up their reserved seats for the Mt. St. Mary's game by presenting Student Book Ticket No. 9 to the Athletic Office. Reserved seats in the South and East Stand may be obtained for your friends (student or adult) at 1 dollar a ticket.

Tickets will be available the night of the game at their regular prices, but there is no guarantee of a seat that goes with these tickets.

Positively no student book tickets will be honored the night of the game.

Student attendance at basketball games has been very good so far this season. The student body should be congratulated for this fine show of school spirit. Basketball, however, is not the only sport in which Loyola is competing at present.

Loyola also has a fine Wrestling team and an undefeated swimming team whose contests have not been so well attended by the students. So let's get out and show our natators and grapplers that we're behind them.

Grapplers Face Hampden Sydney Today At 3 p.m.

Loyola's wrestlers oppose Hampden Sydney here at 3 p.m. today. This should be an especially interesting match in that experience will not be a factor in its outcome. Both the Hounds and Hampden Sydney are returning to competition this year after not competing for a few years.

The two matches to watch in this contest should be Bucky Parr's 137 pound match and Charley Carey's 167 pound test. Carey and Parr have only each lost one match this year and Carey's loss came in the 191 pound class while spotting his opponent fifteen pounds.

In their Towson match the Hound wrestlers overcame the teachers 26-11.

In this match Bill Iampeiri at 123 pounds lost a decision to Lee Orlando, last year's Mason-Dixon champ, 4-0. Tom Iampeiri, 130, finished off his man, Wallace, in 1.55 minutes. Buck Parr then proceeded to pin Chaffman, 137, in 5.20 minutes. Ken Donohue, Loyola's 147 man, won the first match he has ever wrestled by a score of 14-10 over Patrinicola. Charley Carey and Jerry Balda pinned their men for the Hounds and Charley Graham decisioned his man 5-2.

Freshman Phil Potter

Belmont Abbey Tonite; Mounts This Wednesday

By PETE COOK

The Loyola College basketball team returns home tonight (8:15 p.m.) for the first time since the semester break to engage powerful Belmont Abbey College. The game should prove a tough test for the Hounds for the Crusaders are so potent that they have a tough time finding opponents for themselves. Even then the Southerners have to travel from coast to coast to play their games.

The North Carolinians' popularity is unquestioned. They recently drew 13,000 people to a game in Evansville, Indiana. Says Nappy Doherty, "They're probably the best team to appear at Evergreen this year." The team is coached by Al Maguire who is the brother of Dick Maguire, the Detroit Pistons' mentor, and the top scorer is flashy 6'7" Danny "Sunshine" Doyle who led the team with a 15.7 average last year.

Other top performers are James Sparrow, John Von Bargaen and James Mullen.

Although not a league game, the contest's importance is noticed in the fact that it is the Hounds' last start before engaging arch-rival Mt. St. Mary's next Wednesday night.

Last time the two traditional foes met, the Mountaineers prevailed 98-80, and this should prove an added incentive for the Reitzmen to topple Jim Phelan's crew. The Hound followers who witnessed last month's tilt all too well remember the support of the student body, but this time the Greyhounds have the advantage of the home court.

Jerry Savage and Ed Pfeiffer led the scoring in that one, but the Hounds will be out to stop them this time.

Fans who attend tonight's game may get a glimpse of other than straight basketball. The Crusaders' center, "Sunshine" Doyle, has been known to clown around in the "Hot Rod" Hundly fashion.
